Chosen to present at the Texas Child Care Administrators Conference as a thought leader in residential treatment center best practices

TYPS

All stories are true, but we used pseudonyms and stock photos to protect the children’s identities. All information is from Upbring’s Fiscal year 2018 - April 1, 2017 thru March 31, 2018.

By the Numbers

- 172 children connected with forever families through Upbring Foster-to-Adopt (130) and Domestic and International Adoption (42)
- 2,490 children provided with a safe, inclusive place to learn through Upbring Education Programs
- 39,792 volunteer hours served through LSS Disaster Response
- 15,410 people provided with emergency assistance for utilities, food vouchers, hygiene products and other essentials
- 1,349 unaccompanied migrant children served through Upbring Children’s Shelters and Transitional Foster Care
Home is Where You are Loved

A home is more than a physical structure that provides children with protection from the elements. Home is where newborns sleep safely and peacefully on smitten fathers’ chests. Home is where parents stay up all night sorting Girl Scout cookie orders, and grandparents, aunts, uncles and cousins spend holidays opening gifts and playing touch football in the backyard.

Simply put, home is where children are loved, supported and encouraged. Sadly, many of the children Upbring serves have never had a home, at least not by those standards. That changed when you came into their lives.

In this impact report, we are proud to share just a handful of inspirational stories we were blessed to be part of in 2018. The children in these stories once sat alone in dark rooms, shrunk at the sound of raised voices and watched from a distance as happy kids played outside their windows. But because of you, our children are coming out of the shadows and stepping into the bright futures God prepared for them.

Your support has empowered thousands of children to connect with loving foster families, heal from deep emotional wounds, open doors through the power of education and develop the skills they need to succeed as adults. But despite the steps we have taken toward our shared mission, our work is not done.

Every year, there are approximately 60,000 confirmed cases of child abuse and neglect across Texas. Research shows that 30 percent of children who are abused will abuse their own children. Upbring works tirelessly to break the generational cycle of child abuse, but we cannot do our important work alone.

Collaborating with our faith partners, corporate supporters, strategic partners, servant-hearted volunteers and generous donors, we will continue to find innovative ways to deliver services that meet children’s needs in five key areas: safety, health, education, vocation and life skills.

On behalf of our board of directors and staff, thank you for surrounding our children with love, support and encouragement. Thank you for giving them a home.

You Deserve to be Called Mom

After Sandra’s husband passed away and her daughter left for college, she found herself lonely. That’s when she opened her home and heart to children in foster care.

Today, Sandra’s life is filled with the laughter of four happy, energetic siblings. The first time one of the children called her “Mom,” she laughed and suggested he try “Grandma” instead, but the child would hear nothing of it.

“You pay attention to us, hug us and ask how our day was,” the oldest child said. “We’ve suffered a lot, and you’ve given us everything. You deserve to be called mom.”

Sharing family traditions is one of the joys of motherhood. If Sandra’s kids go to school, do their homework and try their best, she rewards them with an allowance, their favorite meal and a movie, just as her own father did for her.

Sandra hopes the siblings pass that tradition down to their own children someday. But right now, she is focused on giving them happy memories that will last a lifetime.

“You’ve given us everything. You deserve to be called mom.”

Connections for Life

This spring, Upbring and the Texas Institute for Child and Family Wellbeing released a pilot report of the Texas Youth Permanency Study (TYPS). This first-of-its kind research asks whether the child welfare system’s focus on legal permanency (adoption, reunification with biological parents, kinship care) gives children in foster care the support and guidance they need to grow into successful adults.

Findings from this 5-year study will provide insight that helps us deliver the support each child needs to thrive after they leave our care and, ultimately, break the cycle of abuse.

TYPS alternative model for success:

- Every child needs authentic relationships with adults who genuinely care about them.
- Youth who forge authentic relationships feel like normal children.
- Authentic relationships and feeling normal foster well-being in adulthood.
Thank You for Holding Me in Your Arms

Kayla’s father and her boyfriend had convinced her she was unworthy of love. Tragically, she believed the abuse she survived at their hands was her fault.

At Upbring Krause Children’s Center, Kayla started attending Bible studies and worship services. The deeper she dug into God’s Word, the more she embraced the truth that God has a plan for her life that is better than anything she could dream of. In a letter she wrote in preparation for her baptism, Kayla shared her newfound hope.

“Lord, thank you for letting me change and become a better person. The day I accepted Jesus, you showed me that I can do things I could never do in my life, Lord. I finally made my goals in life: I would like to be a missing person investigator and a nurse. I would also like to go to college. I am changing my life, Lord. Thank you for being there, holding me in your arms and never letting go.”

Home is Where You Heal

The Transformative Power of God’s Love

As a faith-inspired organization, Upbring believes true healing happens when we meet children’s physical, emotional and spiritual needs.

We offer Bible studies, worship services, Vacation Bible School and other optional spiritual care services to the girls who call our children’s centers home. Your support gives our courageous girls the chance to experience the transformative power of God’s love.

357 brave girls given a safe place to heal at our residential treatment centers
The Narrow Path to Inspiration

Only 50 percent of children in foster care graduate high school, and 3 percent earn a college degree. Thanks to generous donors who support Upbring Education Programs, children like Olivia are overcoming the odds and moving toward better lives.

When Olivia came to Upbring Krause Children’s Center, she did not have the confidence to tackle English, math and science classes, and she did not believe she was worthy of the bright future God prepared for her.

Through our partnership with Trinity Charter Schools (TCS), Upbring provides on-site education to the girls we serve at Krause. TCS teachers have access to laptops that include powerful educational software.

Olivia’s teachers developed a customized, technology-driven credit recovery plan. The plan allowed Olivia to work at her own pace and focus only on the concepts she had not mastered.

With each course she passed, Olivia’s confidence and enthusiasm grew. She made the honor roll and began mentoring other students. She also started planning for life after high school.

Olivia is a junior who hopes to graduate early. She is currently touring colleges and plans to attend one where she can apply her math skills to be an engineer.

Closing the Gap

Many of the girls who call our children’s centers home arrive at least two grade levels behind in school. On-site Trinity Charter Schools give them the opportunity to continue their education in a safe, nurturing environment.

Through customized education plans and support from teachers who are trained to work with childhood trauma survivors, most girls are achieving at grade level by the time they complete their treatment and take the next steps in their life journey.

As importantly, children who have spent much of their young lives being pushed down by adults are building a sense of confidence in themselves and optimism about their futures because of your unwavering belief in their potential.
Strength through the Storm

Hurricane Harvey left a deep mark on Texas, claiming possessions, homes and, tragically, lives. In Harvey’s wake, the Upbring family stood strong.

We are grateful to the congregations, businesses, families and individuals in Texas and across the country who answered the call to help those impacted by this tragedy. Your generosity helped us provide dry, clean clothes; nutritious food; medical care; and a safe, warm place to sleep in the days and weeks after the storm.

Thousands of families will feel Harvey’s effects for years to come. Because of your support, Upbring will be there to walk alongside them as they rebuild their lives.

Pictured are Kennedy Franklin (seated) and her friend Jeye Johnson. Jeye and Kennedy, the daughter of Upbring board member Wood Franklin, hosted two bake sales and donated the proceeds to LSS Disaster Response.

Upbring Community Services include Neighborhood House and Health for Friends Clinic, as well as LSS Disaster Response. By supporting these important programs and sharing your neighbors’ burdens, you are doing more than meeting their needs for necessities like food, health care and shelter. You are giving them the freedom to spend more time making beautiful memories with loved ones.

With her BeREAL caseworker’s support, Kathryn earned her GED, passed her driving test and bought a vehicle. She also connected with job skills training and free parenting classes to help her be the loving, nurturing mother she longed for as a child.

Emily spent years hiding the abuse she suffered at the hands of adults who should have loved and cherished her. Each year, Upbring Children’s Centers provide a warm, nurturing home where approximately 350 brave girls are surrounded by compassionate adults who make them feel welcomed, accepted, loved and treasured.
